Copper in Aquaculture

Copper is used in aquaculture—the farming of aquatic organisms such as fish, crustaceans and aquatic plants.

Copper-alloy nets help increase the world’s food supply.

Copper-alloy net pens improve water flow and prevent bacteria growth, leading to cleaner water. Copper-alloy mesh also lasts for at least six years and is 100% recyclable.